

Dear Mr Grinling,

I'm sorry that the seagulls are being naughty and stealing your yummy lunch.

I hope you are not too sad because I have an idea to help you.

Maybe you should put some spicy sauce on the food because then the seagulls won't like it. When they steal the food it will burn their beak so they won't do it again.

If that doesn't work then perhaps you could make a loud, scary scarecrow to sit on the basket and when the seagulls get close press a button to make a loud screaming sound to frighten them.

Do you think any of these ideas will work? What naughty seagulls they are! I really hope you can get Mr Grinling's lunch to him so he doesn't get too hungry.

From
Mr Cozens
